

ARTIKEL

Mortality from dementia

Dementia disorders are fatal. On average, a person with a dementia disorder lives 5 to 8 years after the diagnosis.

ARTIKEL

Distribution of dementia disorders

Up to 200 medical conditions can be accompanied by dementia or cognitive impairment. Alzheimer's disease is by far the most...

ARTIKEL

Age and gender distribution in dementia

Dementia is more common among women than men. Dementia most often affects older people, but dementia can in rare cases...

ARTIKEL

Projected prevalence of dementia in Denmark

Up until 2016, possibly due to increasing life expectancy and an aging population, there was a gradual increase in the...

ARTIKEL

Incidence and prevalence of dementia in Denmark

As a result of increasing average life expectancy, and an expanding elderly population, an increase in the number of elderly...

ARTIKEL

Publications

On this page you will find scientific publications, dissertations, books and book chapters and other publications to which DDRC has...

NYHED

05. oktober 2021

Stort fald i andel af ældre med demens

Andelen af ældre mennesker, der årligt diagnosticeres med demens eller sættes i behandling med demensmedicin, er faldet markant, viser nyt...

NYHED

28. september 2021

World Alzheimer Report '21: Udredning og diagnosticering af demens

Paraplyorganisation for nationale alzheimerforeninger verden over, Alzheimer Disease International, har i september udgivet en rapport på mere end 300 sider...

NYHED

24. september 2021

ARTIKEL

Stadig mange mennesker med demens får antipsykotisk medicin

Der er de seneste år registreret et lille fald i andelen af mennesker med demens som medicineres med antipsykotika. Men...

European Cross-Cultural Neuropsychological Test Battery (CNTB)

Ved neuropsykologisk undersøgelse af patienter med anden kulturel og sproglig baggrund anbefaler man, så vidt det er muligt at anvende...